

J. J. SPADE, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR,

GETTYSBURG, PA.

MONDAY MORNING, FEB. 4, 1861.

Let the People Speak.

The Crittenden Compromise is fair; it proposes to divide the Territory of the nation between the free and the slave States, and even gives the North three times as much as the South. This is the South, we are willing to accept; they have offered it as the olive branch of peace; its rejection can only come from the dominant party of the North. By placing it on the very face of the Constitution it becomes a part of the organic law of the land; cannot be changed at the whim of one section or the other, but must remain permanent and enduring, until repealed as the Constitution itself may prescribe. It is feasible; let Congress at once call a convention of the States, and the amendment can be adopted and ratified in far less time than has already been occupied in useless discussion. And in addition to its being fair, constitutional, enduring and feasible, the strongest argument that can be urged in its favor, before a patriotic people, is the fact that it is the only possible measure, except, perhaps, the similar propositions of Bigler and Douglas, which can afford a peaceful solution of the difficulties in which we are entangled. What the consequences to Liverpool, Manchester, London, which the London Times remarks are as much interested in slavery as New York? All experience proves, that negroes will not labor except by Democratic legislation; thus guiding the whole country to an eminence of prosperity and renown.

And whereas, The dismemberment of the Union, by the withdrawal of the slave-holding States, now in rapid progress, has been occasioned by a departure from the Democratic construction of the Constitution of the States of the Confederacy, which holds "the equality of persons and property to be a fundamental principle of our Constitution, and by a contemplated abandonment of the conservative Democratic policy which has, for sixty years past, sagaciously guarded the rights of the States" and developed the resources and capacities of the people by Democratic legislation; thus guiding the whole country to an eminence of prosperity and renown:

And whereas, A speedy recognition of the patriotic counsels and conservative policy of the Democratic party in the Administration of the Federal Government, by the people of Pennsylvania and of the other non-slaveholding States, is the only sure means of effecting a permanent re-constitution of the disorganized Confederacy:

And whereas, The organization of the Democratic party of Pennsylvania, in reference to the Keystone of the Federal Arch, "now" having potential and actual power in a large portion of our country, and of the true principle of the Constitution, is entirely competent, if called to immediate action, to restrain threatened sectional violence and to materially aid in reconstructing the federative system on a basis of perpetuity; therefore,

Resolved, That a Democratic State Convention, to consist of three delegates from each Senatorial and Representative district, three hundred and ninety-nine in all, be held in the city of Harrisburg, on Thursday, the 21st day of February next, at 3 o'clock afternoon.

Resolved, That the several districts are hereby earnestly invited to take, in the manner most convenient and agreeable to them, prompt and efficient measures to insure a full and able representation.

Resolved, That the Chairman of this Committee issue a circular, by copy of these resolutions to the Chairman of each County Committee, such elected member of the Committee and such other persons as may be then conveniently and promptly reached; and that to aid in and facilitate this matter, each member of this Committee furnish the Chairman with the names and addresses of Democrats in this district.

The Committee then adjourned.

THE BLUBSTERERS SNUBBED.

Alluding to the valorous threats of the Abolition section of the Black Republican party, the Albany Evening Journal, a Republican paper, whose editor may be supposed to know them well, reminds them of their fondness for war, rather than honor.

Resolved, That the several districts are hereby earnestly invited to take, in the manner most convenient and agreeable to them, prompt and efficient measures to insure a full and able representation.

The Committee then adjourned.

DEMOCRATIC STATE CONVENTION!

The Democratic State Executive Committee of Pennsylvania, at a meeting held in the city of Harrisburg, on the 30th ultimo, unanimously resolved to elicit the views of the Democracy of the "old Keystone" in reference to the present terrible crisis of our National affairs.

The failure of the Republican party to meet in a proper spirit of concession and compromise, the overtures made for the adjustment of our National difficulties, and especially the fact that the United Democracy of this Commonwealth should take no part in the present conflict, has rendered the situation most uncertain, and would be the means of bringing upon us civil war, bloodshed, and the ultimate ruin of both sections of the country.

Resolved, That we do hereby approve of the measures of compromise of the venerable and truly honorable John J. Crittenden, of Kentucky, and respectfully beseech our members in Congress to exert their endeavors to the utmost in their effectual adoption, before the entire South shall have abandoned the Union in despair.

Resolved, That the active and patriotic members of the House of Representatives of Adams county, for the repeal of all laws conflicting with the Compromise Acts of Congress, passed in 1850, and Laws of this State conflicting with the laws of other States. Also, petitions from citizens of this county for the repeal of the act passed on the 14th day of April, 1859, for the protection of game, so far as the same relates to the county of Adams.

a large and varied assortment of Valentine cards, some of them really splendid. Prices low, to suit the times. His stock of Confetti is larger than ever, almost daily adding to it by selections of the most choice to be had in the cities. And then his Segars, too, "can't be beat," the variety combining almost all brands. Give Ern a call. You will find him attentive and accommodating and his prices as reasonable as possible.

JINGLE, JINGLE, JINGLE.—On Saturday we had quite a fall of snow, the deepest of the season, making excellent sleighing for several days, and many a merry sleigh ride was had by the young folks.

Over doors and through the dells With the music of the bells.

Older folks, too, enjoyed themselves sleighing, while transportation of all kinds was suspended on runners, and business generally done on a "sliding scale."

The drawing of premiums of the Cosmopolitan Art Association has been postponed until the 18th of April next. Mr. H. G. Geer, at the Post Office, will receive subscriptions up to that time.

J. STABLE, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

GETTYSBURG, PA.

MONDAY MORNING, FEB. 4, 1861.

An Important Day.—This day, the 4th of February, is likely to become a memorable one in the history of the country. It is the day designated for the assembling of delegates at Montgomery, Ala., to form a Southern Confederacy, also for the meeting of the resolutions of the Virginia Legislature, to adopt such measures of compromise and conciliation as may again unite the North and South, and thus restore peace to the country. To-day also the people of Virginia will be called upon to choose delegates to a State convention, and at the same time vote on "referring" or "against referring" the action of said convention to the popular vote. ——————

In the House, on Monday, Mr. Rice, of Massachusetts, presented a petition signed by 16,000 citizens of Boston, asking for some peaceful adjustment of the present existing difficulties. The petition was wrapped in the American flag, and was received with applause from the galleries. The commissioners who were entrusted with the mission of bearing the petition to the seat of government, with the Hon. Edward Everett at their head, entered and took their seats in the diplomatic gallery. ——————

In the U. S. Senate, on Wednesday, Mr. Bigler presented the proceedings of the workingmen's meeting of Philadelphia, praying Congress to adopt the Crittenden proposition as a basis of adjustment. He spoke of the great importance of the meeting, and the respectability of its character.

Mr. Cameron presented the proceedings of another workingmen's meeting. He wished to explain his remarks made the other day, approving of his colleague's propositions. While he approved of their tone and substance, he was not in favor of all their details. He was, however, willing to make any reasonable concession as soon as he knew what would satisfy the South, and provided she was willing to accept such concession as satisfactory. ——————

In the U. S. Senate, on Thursday, Mr. Seward presented a memorial praying for compromise, from 38,000 citizens of the State of New York, and said that although the Senate chamber was the largest legislative chamber ever erected since the beginning of the world, except the House of Representatives, this memorial would cover a space thirty times as large as this chamber. He had already presented a similar memorial with 25,000 names, all urging conciliation. The committee who brought this memorial were the representatives of the largest commerce in the world—commerce which in any other country would be paramount, to all other interests. Happily this was not so. ——————

Congress did nothing towards reconciliation last week. It is not within the power of any human being to predict what the result will be. The signs are gloomy enough. ——————

The CRITTENDEN Compromise is intended to quiet the slavery agitation forever, by grafting upon the Constitution a provision that all Territory north of 36 degrees 30 minutes shall be free, and all south of that line open to the introduction of slaves; but when the people come to form States, they shall say whether they will have slavery or not. This is certainly fair for the North, and no Northern man should object to such a compromise, especially when the country is to be saved from the horrors of civil war thereby. The Abolition journals—the Tribune, Star, and the rest of the same stripe—rare and rare against conciliation and reconciliation, with the hope of preventing the masses from seeing their own best interests. The people, however, must not allow themselves to be judged by these demagogues, but keep straight on in the path of duty and patriotism. ——————

Why Don't They Vote for it?—Why do not the Republicans favor the restoration of the Missouri Compromise Line, as proposed by that gallant old Whig, Mr. Crittenden? They whined and groaned for years about its repeal: why do their members of Congress not vote for it now, when it might be incorporated into the Constitution, and thus made a final settlement of the question of slavery? ——————

The Tribune on Cameron.—The New York Tribune is positively savage and comes down hard on Senator Cameron, because he announced, in behalf of some Republicans, that they would vote for the Crittenden compromise as amended by Senator Bigler. The Tribune says, of all propositions "to humiliate the North," it is the most detestable, the most cowardly, and the most irregular." This Abolition print will soon have its hands full in reading men out of its party. ——————

Seaside.—More sensible words we have not recently met with than these from the Lowell Patriot.—"When negro slavery is abolished, it will probably be done, not by Congress, but by the Legislatures of the free States, but by the slave States themselves. It is their business, not ours, and the less we have to say and do about it, the better. We have no use for three millions of a degraded and inferior race, and if we had them here, their condition would not be improved, either intellectually, socially, or politically."

Never Saw So Many Tories.—A Republican passed through our Borough a few days ago. He had been on a tour of business through Lancaster, York and Cumberland counties, and had liberal intercourse with the people. He was a violent abolitionist, and expressed himself to be utterly astonished and surprised to find so many tories in the country. If he had seen all those opposed to civil war as tories, he certainly found them largely in the majority in this section.—West Chester Advertiser. ——————

The Proceedings of a meeting of Democrats at Maj. H. Wolf's, Philadelphia.—The Advertiser says that Senator Crittenden will be the lone Lincolnite.

Thanks to Harry J. Myers, Esq., for continued legislative favor.

Let the People Speak.

The Crittenden Compromise is fair; it proposes to divide the Territory of the nation between the free and the slave States, and even gives the North three times as much as the South. This the South are willing to accept: they have offered it as the olive branch of peace; its rejection can only come from the dominant party of the North. By placing it on the very face of the Constitution it becomes a part of the organic law of the land; cannot be changed at the whim of one section or the other, but must remain permanent and enduring, until repealed as the Constitution itself may prescribe. It is feasible; let Congress at once call a convention of the States, and the amendment can be adopted and ratified in less time than has already been occupied in useless discussion. And in addition to its being fair, constitutional, enduring and feasible, the strongest argument that can be urged in its favor, before a patriotic people, in the fact that it is the only possible measure, except, perhaps, the similar propositions of Ingler and Douglas, which can afford a peaceful solution of the difficulties in which we are entangled. We repeat it, to reject such a proposition as this, the last hope of the country, leaves the leaders of the Republican party without excuse.

What then should be done? ask the Chambersburg Times. Are we totally under the power of these men? No, thank God! There is a power behind all this; these men are but the servants of the people. And if they are unable to effect an adjustment among themselves, let them give the matter into the hands of the people. There have been propositions of this kind already made; let them be adopted. The people would settle this matter very soon. And if their Representatives fail to do this, let them speak in the language of a master who is determined to be obeyed. Let them demand that these questions shall be taken out of the hands of politicians and submitted to them. They have the greatest interest in the questions at issue. It is themselves, their families and their property, which are to suffer from national disruption, civil war or anarchy. They are in duty bound to speak; and more than this, they have the power to speak. Let that power be used for the salvation of this great Government, and for the preservation of their most sacred rights and deepest interests. They will thus advance the cause of Liberty throughout the world, and faithfully discharge the duties they owe their Creator and their fellow man. Until this last attempt has proved fruitless we should not wholly give over to despair.

Do the Republicans in Congress Represent the Views of their Constituents?

Memorial after memorial has been sent to Congress for weeks past praying for the passage of the Crittenden resolutions, with a view to restore peace to the country. Meetings have been held in every State and in almost every county, endorsing these resolutions. Petitions hundreds of feet long and signed by tens of thousands of names, have poured in upon the members and some of our most distinguished statesmen and citizens have been selected to carry them. Men high in office, both in and out of Congress, have pleaded for the passage of these resolutions. Influential bodies of men, representing the great industrial and commercial interests of the country, have united their voices to secure it. Warnings have continued to come from patriotic men at the South. State after State has indeed, and others are speedily to follow, because there appears no disposition to yield, to the demands of right and justice. But what effect will have all these demonstrations of popular sentiment upon the Representatives of the people? Now whatever they are utterly disregarded, and even treated with contempt. Petitions and entreaties are thrown away upon their obstinacy. Breath is wasted upon deaf and unwilling ears.

These men are no Representatives of the people. On the contrary, they persistently oppose the wishes of their constituents. It is idle to charge that these petitions for peace and conciliation come from Democrats only. They are the united expression of men of all parties, many Republicans included.

Patriot and Union.

If civil war follows a refusal to adjust the existing difficulties on such a basis, the Crittenden Compromise, as it stands, will be the responsibility of those who reject all compromise.—Albion Sentinel.

Any Northern Senator or Representative who shall vote to send it (the Crittenden Compromise) out to distract and insult our people, will be branded by a retrospective mark as inedible as that which disfigured the forehead of Cain."—Star.

The editor of the Sentinel, in putting in a kind word in favor of the Crittenden Compromise, but echoes the voice of reason for a fair and bloodless adjustment of the difficulties which now so threateningly hang over the country; whilst the Star echoes the sentiments of the Abolitionist Greeley, and the Abolitionists who follow him, to satisfy all, and leave no ranking vestiges behind. In proposing the bill in the House of Representatives, he used these memorable words: "My Lords, I am one of those who have probably passed more of my life in war than most men, and principally, I may say, in civil war, too; and I must say this, that if I could avoid, by any sacrifice, even one month of civil war in the country to which I am attached, I would sacrifice my life in order to do it." There is wisdom and counsel in these words, and their applicability to the present condition of this country is strikingly evident.

HARRISBURG, Jan. 31.—Governor Curtin

has appointed the following gentlemen as Commissioners to the conference of States called by the Legislature of Virginia to assemble in Washington on Monday next:

Ex-Governor Chase, Thos. Ewing, J. C. Wright, Wm. Groseclose, V. H. Horton, Reuben Hitchcock, F. T. Backus.

The Legislature of Rhode Island has repealed the Personal Liberty Bill of that State. The "sober second thought" is at work.

Why will you suffer? Dyspepsia is a brief, but comprehensive term for the numerous diseases which affect the stomach, and in fact, the whole system. Until

Dr. Greene discovered the "Organized Bile," medical science had exhibited itself in vain attempting to cure this disease.

Events of Civil War Upon the North.

Coaching, says the Baltimore American, (Opposition) that the South, as is claimed by Republican journals, and confidently believed by the Republican masses, can be crushed in the iron grip of the North; conceding that nine millions of Anglo-Saxons accustomed to the use of arms from their infancy, fighting upon their own soil, defending their wives, children, friends, property, honor, and all that makes the world having shall prove unable to protect themselves; conceding all this, what can be its effect upon the North? What the results of universal Southern destruction and negro emancipation upon the manufacturers of Massachusetts, the commerce of New York, the ten thousand Northern interests which are supported by Southern money and encouraged by the present system of Southern labor? What the consequences to Liverpool, Manchester, London, which the London Times remarks are as much interested in slavery as New York? All experience proves that negroes will not labor except upon compulsion, and that the cotton and rice fields of the South can be cultivated by none other than negro labor. No white man can endure exposure to the sun in these regions. Do the Republicans expect to cultivate the cotton field themselves? or do they only propose to take the slaves from their present masters and make them work for themselves? We command this subject to the commercial and manufacturing men of the North. Would not the triumph of a Northern invasion of the South be worse than a defeat? A bombardment of New York, Boston, Lowell, Philadelphia, Liverpool, Manchester and London would not only bring the mischief to these cities that a bloody conquest of the South and successful insurrection of the slaves would accomplish. Let the business men of our Northern cities think of these things, and if they cannot prevent disunion, let them prevent a war of sections. For it is as important to Northern as to Southern interests that the South should not be successfully invaded, and that the present system of labor, by which all the great staples of American commerce are produced, and by which it is enabled to purchase the productions of Northern industry, should not be overthrown.

THE BLUSTERERS SNUBBED.

Alluding to the valorous threats of the Abolition section of the Black Republican party, the Albany Evening Journal, a Republican paper, whose editor may be supposed to know them well, quietly reminds them of their fondness for words rather than blows:

"The cheapest and the thinnest kind of patriotism is that which costs nothing. So, too, with that species of courage which, out of danger, vapors and swaggers. Of the army of Abolitionists who have lived so many years been leading war and rapine, (on paper,) not one of them ever faced their enemies."

When heroic John Brown, acting upon the principles so many professed, lay in prison awaiting execution, what Abolitionist went to his rescue?"

The blaggards who discourse most eloquently in favor of coercion will keep their precious bodies out of sight should bullets begin to fly.

FORCE.

In the Convention which framed the Constitution of the United States, Alexander Hamilton said:

"To coerce the States is one of the maddest projects that was ever devised. A failure of compliance will never be confined to a single State. This being the case, can we suppose it wise to hazard a civil war?" It would be a nation at war with itself. Can any reasonable man be disposed towards a government which makes war and carnage the only means of supporting itself—a government that can exist only by the sword? Every such war must involve the innocent with the guilty. This single consideration should be sufficient to dissuade every sensible citizen against such a government!"—Elliot's Debates in the Federal Convention, vol. 2, page 233.

Mr. Madison said:

"The more he reflected on the use of force the more he doubted the practicality, the justice, and the efficacy of it when applied to people collectively and not individually. A Union of States containing such an ingredient seemed to provide for its own destruction."

The braggarts who discourse most eloquently in favor of coercion will keep their precious bodies out of sight should bullets begin to fly.

THE UNION.

Aluding to the valorous threats of the Abolition section of the Black Republican party, the Albany Evening Journal, a Republican paper, whose editor may be supposed to know them well, quietly reminds them of their fondness for words rather than blows:

"The cheapest and the thinnest kind of patriotism is that which costs nothing. So, too, with that species of courage which, out of danger, vapors and swaggers. Of the army of Abolitionists who have lived so many years been leading war and rapine, (on paper,) not one of them ever faced their enemies."

When heroic John Brown, acting upon the principles so many professed, lay in prison awaiting execution, what Abolitionist went to his rescue?"

The blaggards who discourse most eloquently in favor of coercion will keep their precious bodies out of sight should bullets begin to fly.

FORCE.

In the Convention which framed the Constitution of the United States, Alexander Hamilton said:

"To coerce the States is one of the maddest projects that was ever devised. A failure of compliance will never be confined to a single State. This being the case, can we suppose it wise to hazard a civil war?" It would be a nation at war with itself. Can any reasonable man be disposed towards a government which makes war and carnage the only means of supporting itself—a government that can exist only by the sword? Every such war must involve the innocent with the guilty. This single consideration should be sufficient to dissuade every sensible citizen against such a government!"—Elliot's Debates in the Federal Convention, vol. 2, page 233.

Mr. Madison said:

"The more he reflected on the use of force the more he doubted the practicality, the justice, and the efficacy of it when applied to people collectively and not individually. A Union of States containing such an ingredient seemed to provide for its own destruction."

THE OXYGENATED BITTERS.—Nature, in her great laboratory, has stored some remedy adapted to every disease which "flesh is heir to." But it requires the investigation and research of the philosopher to discover and apply this remedy. Such research and investigation has succeeded in discovering a remedy for that most afflictive dispensation, the DYSPIA.

With all its less and dangerous evils; and it may be asserted that with the phenomena of the Oxygenated Bitters, a case of Dyspnoea cured was a rare experience in medical practice. Now under the influence of these Bitters, the rule is to cure, the rare exception, failure to cure.

FROM THE LADY OF JOHN JONES, ESQ.,

Well known and much respected in the southern part of New Jersey.

SEASIDE, N. J., Jan. 17, 1861.

Mrs. S. W. FOWLER, &c.—

Sirs—I have taken more or less of the Oxygenated Bitters for the last three years, and have been much benefited by their use. I have been much troubled with Dyspnoea for many years past, and found nothing that afforded me any relief until I used the Bitters. I do most cheerfully recommend their use to all who are afflicted with that complaint.
